Zoetis Inc. (ZTS) Overweight

SG&A Concerns Overblown; Solid Revenue Growth Highlights Business Diversity

CONCLUSION

Better than expected revenues were highlighted by 11% growth in U.S. livestock sales and 10% growth in U.S. companion animal sales. EPS was in-line as margins were lower primarily due to promotional expenses that were delayed from Q2. ZTS also launched two beta-agonist products, one for cattle and one for swine, which we find encouraging given high interest for the products in the livestock market. FY13 EPS guidance was narrowed to $1.38 to $1.42 (previously $1.36 to $1.42). ZTS remains a long-term Top Pick as we believe top-line growth could ramp from mid-single digits to high-single digits driven by the improving cattle market, additional product introductions and successful launches, and strategic acquisitions. Maintain Overweight rating and $39 PT.

- Promotional spend negatively impacts margins, but expansion story still intact. We believe concerns about higher SG&A or lack of operating leverage is overblown and believe the long-term margin expansion story is still intact. While SG&A increased 16 bps y/y (as a percentage of sales) and was 205 bps higher than our estimate, it was primarily due to promotional expenses, some of which took place in Q3 instead of Q2, as well as educating vets on new product launches, e.g. APOQUEL in early 2014. Spending can vary quarter to quarter, so management believes the company is performing on track and leverage from 2013 can be sustained in 2014. We expect operating margins to expand 192 bps in 2014 and 144 bps in 2015.
- New product introductions should help drive growth. ZTS highlighted a few product introductions, including U.S. approval for two branded generic ractopamine products or beta-agonists. ENGAIN, used for swine, is expected to launch in the first quarter of 2014 and ACTOGAIN, used for cattle, is expected to launch in the second half of 2014. While Merck's beta-agonist, Zilmax, was pulled from the market due to potential adverse side effects in cattle, no side effects have been reported for ZTS' new ractopamine products. We remain encouraged by ZTS' product development activities, including FACTREL for dairy cattle and the beta-agonists, which will be in high demand as ranchers look to maximize the value of their livestock.
- Livestock and company animal trends seem favorable. We believe trends in the livestock and companion animal markets are favorable for ZTS, particularly in the U.S., as livestock revenues increased 11% y/y and companion animal revenues increased 10%. ZTS noted September cattle trends were positive and are anticipated to improve in October, despite lower year-over-year cattle placements in Q3. The most recent USDA Cattle on Feed report indicates placements increased 1%, which we expect to continue next month as cattle are moved from pasture to the feedlots.

Risks include increased regulatory pressures, adverse weather conditions, lower utilization of products, increased competition, and macro economic factors.
